

Compiler: Converts our program and check for syntax errors.

Rules for variable:

- i) Don't start with a number.
- ii) Space aren't allowed in between.
- iii) Reserved keywords aren't allowed.

0 camel-case and underscore.

I like to read books. I am coding something. I wish I can do this.

Semicolon is used to mark end of a statement.

Print statements To display some message.

- { } → curly brace
- [] → square bracket
- () → parenthesis

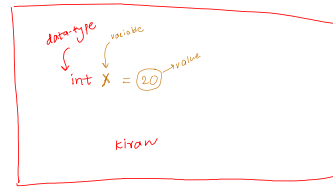

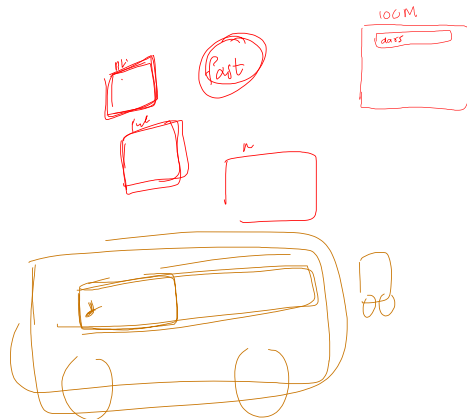

Console: the area where the result is displayed.

from calculator
from writing code programming language
introduction:

Syntax Error

I like to do this thing.
y go u do
I like to do this thing.

data types in Java:

- int → Numbers
- string → words, sentences
- double → decimal points (float)
- char → Special Characters
- boolean → true/false
- long → large numbers

"Kilo"
"Mega" 73.25%

@ - ! #

77
730
590